

The current shortage occupations Germany 2022:

1. Engineers in vehicle, aerospace and shipbuilding technology (experts)
2. Specialists in mechatronics and automation technology
3. Specialists in mechatronics and automation technology
4. Specialists in energy technology
5. Specialists in structural engineering
6. Civil engineering specialists
7. Specialists in construction, drywall construction, insulation, carpentry, glazing, roller shutters
8. Specialist plumbing, sanitary, heating, air-conditioning technology
9. Specialists plumbing, sanitary, heating, air-conditioning technology
10. Experts IT system analysis, user, IT distribution
11. Experts Software development, programming
12. Specialists Monitoring, maintenance of traffic infrastructure
13. Specialists Vehicle guidance in railway traffic
14. Skilled workers medical and practice assistance
15. Specialists health care, nursing, rescue service, obstetrics
16. Specialists in health care, nursing, emergency services, obstetrics
17. Human medicine and dentistry (experts)
18. Specialists - Non-medical therapy and medicine
19. Experts Pharmacy
20. Specialists geriatric care
21. Specialists in geriatric care
22. Specialists body care
23. Specialists in medical, orthopaedic and rehabilitation technology
24. Specialists medical, orthopaedic and rehabilitation technology
25. Specialists driving, sports extracurricular education

The positive list of the Federal Employment Agency lists training occupations from the skilled labour shortage analysis for which other labour market access options do not already exist, for example the EU Blue Card for academics.